

HIGHER EDUCATION

2015 GRANTMAKING IN HIGHER EDUCATION
18 NEW GRANTS

$52.8 million

A total of $50.7 million was distributed, some of which was from commitments approved in previous years.

Working through Davidson College, Duke University, Furman University and Johnson C. Smith University to advance the pursuit of educational excellence, make education more affordable for qualified students and support initiatives and programs that benefit local communities.

James B. Duke

THE DUKE ENDOWMENT

Academic excellence

Enhancing academic excellence through program and campus development

2015 GRANTMAKING

$19.3 million in
7 new grants

At Johnson C. Smith University, Metropolitan College provides flexible options for adult learners. A new grant is helping the college expand its offerings by adding online degrees in business and sport management.

Educational access and success

Increasing educational access and supporting a learning environment that promotes achievement

2015 GRANTMAKING

$32.6 million in
6 new grants

A multi-year grant is helping Furman University bolster its James B. Duke Scholarship, one of the university's premier merit programs for students who display exceptional academic achievement and personal accomplishment.

Campus and community engagement

Promoting a culture of service, collaboration and engagement among schools and communities

2015 GRANTMAKING

$978,500 in
5 new grants

At Davidson College, Duke University, Furman University and Johnson C. Smith University, students, faculty and staff are pursuing interests in environmental sustainability through campus food and farming projects.

CANDIDATES FOR HIGHER EDUCATION GRANTS

Davidson College

Davidson, North Carolina

Duke University

Durham, North Carolina

Furman University

Greenville, South Carolina

Johnson C. Smith University

Charlotte, North Carolina