Helping vulnerable children lead successful lives by supporting early intervention, collaborative approaches and evidence-based programs that help serve children and their families more effectively.

2018 GRANTMAKING IN CHILD & FAMILY WELL-BEING
21 NEW GRANTS

$15 million
A total of $17.7 million was distributed, some of which was from commitments approved
Child and Family Well-Being works through accredited organizations and other nonprofit groups in North Carolina and South Carolina. The two areas of work are:

Prevention and early intervention for at-risk children
Equipping children and families with skills to ensure that children reach developmental milestones to lead successful lives.

Out-of-home care
Driving child welfare systems toward greater accountability for child well-being.

2017 GRANTMAKING
- $6 million in 13 new grants for prevention and early intervention.
- $11 million in 15 new grants for out-of-home care.

In Darlington County, South Carolina, grants are supporting a community-wide project focused on reducing teen pregnancy. Partners include the county public school system, local clinics and hospitals, and grassroots organizations. With efforts focused on school-based education, clinic access to contraceptive care and community-led interventions, the goal is to give young people resources for healthy choices.

Departments of social services work tirelessly to find permanent placements for children, whether through adoption or family reunification. Catawba County, North Carolina, piloted a project that ensures children exiting foster care receive necessary supports and case management. Funding is helping this Success Coach model expand into six additional counties as part of a randomized control trial.

CANDIDATES FOR CHILD & FAMILY WELL-BEING GRANTS
Child and Family Well-Being works through accredited organizations and other nonprofit groups in North Carolina and South Carolina. The two areas of work are:

- Prevention and early intervention for at-risk children focuses on replicating evidence-based programs, such as Incredible Years or Trauma-Focused Cognitive Behavioral Therapy, and building North Carolina and South Carolina’s capacity to implement evidence-based models.

- Out-of-home care strives to help the child welfare system improve well-being through better assessment and the exclusive use of high quality providers that offer a range of services during and after care.
